Dear Graham

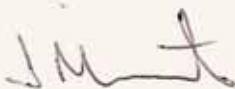

After hearing about Peat Moss, I decided to trail this product on newly planted vines on my property. I incorporated peat moss into the ground before planting at a rate of 1 Tonne per acre in a band 15-20cm below where the vines were to be planted 10 days later.

This season I applied only one application of Nigtrigon in late November. We also had a cool summer which slowed down vine growth, and it wasn't until early February before we got really hot weather, which got the vines growing well.

Looking at the vines now in comparison to the previous seasons plantings, I have had very even vine growth along the corridors, along with good trunk diameter. The vines look healthy with more spurs than in previous seasons.

I am very happy with the results and will continue to use Peat Moss with another trail this season on my citrus.

Yours sincerely

Jim Minato.
